Olympic Radiology enters the Cyberworld

Olympic Radiology is pleased to announce that it has launched a newly designed website. The launch of the new site is being done in collaboration with the launch of Olympic Radiology's new PACS system. The site will function as a Web Portal to the PACS as well as offering referring clinicians and patients other features.

While olympicradiology.com has been in existence since the opening of our facility, it was very basic and had limited information. "Our new website is much more informative", states Michele Sauer, facility administrator. "As the site expands, it will become more interactive as well."

The website contains information about exams and exam preparations; PACS use and access; driving directions; contact information and much more. Our referral form is also available for download and printing. Future features include current and archived newsletters; secure online referrals; downloadable forms, online bill pay and other support tools for clinician's staff.

PACS Training being scheduled now.

On Tuesday March 12, Olympic Radiology went live on its Webportal/PACS system. This new tool will allow Olympic Radiology to share both images and reports with referring offices in real time. Images will be available thru a secure web-site immediately after the completion of the patients exam, and reports will be available once they are signed off by the radiologist.

In order to get your office set up with access, please contact Wendie Pond, Assistant Administrator, to arrange for a training session. Wendie can be reached at wendiep@olympicradiology.com or by calling 360-479-6555.

The Blue Man Group Visits Harrison Medical Center

Our Olympic Radiology physicians entertained hospital staff at Harrison Medical Center's "Manager Appreciation Dinner" in December. Can you name the docs in this picture in the order they are pictured? All correct guesses will go into a drawing for a free lunch for your office.

Go to Olympicradiology.com and click on the "News" link for contest entry instructions. The drawing will be held on April 20th so be sure to submit your entry before that.
